Scattered Thoughts Of A Comatose Civilian Pilot
>By Sarina-chan
>I loved you once in silence,
My untouchable hero.
>Though we knew so little of each other,
I couldn't help but understand.
>We are more alike then you know.
>Bullets sang as the war continued.
I was foolish then,
>with my borrowed ideals.
You saved me more than I ever saved you that day.
Since then,
>I have followed you faithfully.
Even when you left to continue your battle,
>I eventually caught up to you.
>Thank you for your concern
When I was injured in action.
>It means more to me than you realize.
>I hope,
When this is all over,
>You will come back to me,
My unreachable dark angel.
I hope,
>When you do,
You will love me almost as much as I have loved you.

Author's Note:
> See if you can guess who's talking hehe...
>God, I haven't written poetry in years! I was once really good. I've been published three times in the National Poetry Societies poetry books in the National Library of Congress, but I lost the gift for a long time. I hope it's some what near that calibur hehe. Please tell me if it is.
